

TRANSITION PLYMOUTH presents:

TRANSITION & PROTEST

Is protesting part of the solution?

A PUBLIC DISCUSSION

Many people feel shocked by our extreme weather, yet reputable world scientists have warned for decades about the dangers of burning fossil fuels, increasing animal farming and promoting extreme consumerism.

Today, the UK government is willing to invest in more gas & oil and the economic cuts come at a time where the climate crisis is hitting hard.

What is needed to shift government policy and individual lifestyles? Do we need more talks from experts or more direct action? Are demonstrations, flash mobs, street theatre, bank lock-ons, clown armies, critical mass, disruption of meetings and roof occupations the way forward in a warming planet?

Come and share together ideas, proposals, questions about this important topic.

THURSDAY 20th MARCH
