

TRANSITION PLYMOUTH presents:

ENERGY for PLYMOUTH

Can we generate and use sustainably?

A PUBLIC DISCUSSION

Energy is a core issue in our adaptation to Climate Change.

Essential questions must be urgently made and answered.

How much energy are we using and how much do we really need?

How are we generating energy and are those sources ethical and sustainable?

What is the truth behind carbon footprints? What does offsetting really achieve?

Do we need to change habits and attitudes to using energy?

Can Plymouth create its own "Energy Descent Action Plan"?

Come and share your questions, ideas and proposals about this important issue.

THURSDAY 21st NOVEMBER

6.30pm for a 7pm start

Room 403, Babbage building, Plymouth University

Wheelchair access. Refreshments provided.

On the third Thursday of every month Transition Plymouth invites you to join our public discussions that explore themes related to Transition, including polemic ones
Everyone is welcome!
