

TRANSITION PLYMOUTH presents:

FAIRNESS

What does it mean for Transition?

A PUBLIC DISCUSSION

Transition engages with profound changes that involve a revision of our values as a society. We are living in a system that has taught us that the vital ingredient for progress is economic growth, but new currents of thought suggest this is not true. They say that our excessive concern for "economic growth" only feeds the climate crisis, puts social justice in second place and fosters an exploitative view of the natural world. Is a sustainable future possible without fairness and equality? Can we achieve all of these? If so, how?

Come and share your ideas, proposals and questions about fairness
