

TRANSITION PLYMOUTH presents:

WATER

Life Source or Resource?

A PUBLIC DISCUSSION

Water is an element we cannot live without. However, Climate change is melting glaciers and changing weather patterns. Flooding is impacting our communities and the world has seen many “wars over water”.

How can we conserve it and use it appropriately?

How well do we really know water as a “life force”? Can water be “owned”?

Can we recycle and reuse it? How to ensure access to clean water supplies for everyone? How to reduce its pollution and waste?

Plymouth holds the reputation of Ocean City. What does this mean to us?

What is the current situation and the future of water in Plymouth?

Come and share together ideas, proposals, questions about this topic.

THURSDAY 20th FEBRUARY

6.30pm for a 7pm start

Room 210, Roland Levinsky building, Plymouth University
